examines the problems of maintaining horses in such a harsh environment the use of horses in warfare in analysed but the non military aspects of the west african horse culture are also discussed principally the use of horses as tokens of status and wealth the book includes a review of the decline of the west african horse culture in the 20th century reflecting the passing of a political system based on warfare and slavery provides an analytical framework adapted to the west african context as well as an action framework based on the facts and realities in the field in order to improve the coherence of fisheries policies in west africa this book provides a fascinating summary of african history over 5000 years from the stone age to the classical greek and roman era through the medieval period of the kingdoms of the western sudan and into the colonial era this is far beyond the time span normally covered in history texts and it empowers conton to sweeping conclusions the style and language are simple in this text originally intended for west african secondary school students but the concepts the author explores are universal and still very topical writing from a very definite point of view his reach in space and time is vast drawing on historical evidence from around the globe from ancient classical medieval and pre modern sources and from local oral traditions unafraid of controversy he confidently quotes herodotus account of the early circumnavigation of africa before he describes the slow patient achievement of this objective by the portuguese some 2 000 years later he raises the possibility that the yoruba may have actually come from egypt an advanced civilization which he maintains probably had at least one black community he dwells at length on the great african empires of ghana mali and songhai all the while backing up his history with sources detailed maps and photographic evidence of the rich culture of ancient west africa this book provides a very useful background to the general reader interested in a fuller understanding of the region this brief summarizes nutrition relevant policies strategies and action plans all referred to as policies in this brief in west africa with a focus on the six nutrition challenges that make up the world health assembly wha global targets we examine i nutrition context policy objectives indicators budget and activities ii key beneficiaries actors and coordination iii monitoring evaluation and accountability and iv the extent to which current policies are aligned with the wha targets people from west africa are risking their lives and surrendering their citizenship rights to enter exploitative labour markets in europe this book offers an explanation for this phenomenon that is based on close analysis of the contradictory economic and political agendas that create and constrain labour migration it shows how global capitalism regulates different stages of the process within an interconnected system of economic dispossession the construction of an illegal status border control labour exploitation and processes of underdevelopment this is summarised as a regime of unfree labour mobility combined with structural and historical approaches this book is based on ethnographic research it incorporates those who are left behind those who decide to stay migrants who fail and those who are on the move alongside clustered migrant communities in senegal mauritania and spain the book s panoramic approach shows how west african step wise journeys to europe by land and sea sees competing territorial and economic policies regulating an unstable and unpredictable trajectory creating illegal labour through dual logics of border security and selective labour mobility this book demonstrates that the diverse channels through which people migrate in the modern era are mediated by european states and labour markets which utilise border regimes to control labour and be globally competitive the themes and patterns that emerge in their context of inter generational change present a challenge to the accepted wisdom about the individual and household dynamics of labour migration this book is of interest to students and scholars of migration transnationalism politics security development economics and sociology from the coastal cities of dakar and lagos to the grassy savannas and lush steamy rain forests of the countryside west africa cultivates flavors that will delight your taste buds this book examines the role of the economic community of west african states ecowas practitioners in coordinating creating and managing regional governance practices in the areas of public health peace and security and microfinancial integration since 1975 there have been many failed and successful attempts at unconstitutional government changes in west africa during this same period numerous instruments have been designed to promote peace and security in the region this book examines the role of bureaucratic actors in the ecowas in harmonizing regional integration policy in west africa using data from fieldwork in several countries in west africa balogun observes how ecowas practitioners network and strategically engage regional stakeholders in health peace and security and finance as a means to deepen harmonization between ecowas member states and build a connection with civil society balogun argues that the founding conditions of ecowas set the organization on an institutional path to adapt its approaches to regional governance region building in west africa challenges the idea that self interested leaders limit regional cooperation the book also challenges the idea that the bureaucrats in the organization are glorified servants to their governments region building in west africa instead focuses on the influence that bureaucrats have in shaping the international policy agenda of ecowas this book will be useful to scholars students and practitioners in africa and beyond who want to better understand the inner workings of african regional organizations and the processes that drive cooperation across west africa it is important for historians studying west africa before the sixteenth century to know what the basic foods were before the arrival of crops from the americas this book is about fourah bay college fbc and its role as an institution of higher learning in both its african and international context the study traces the college s development through periods of missionary education 1816 1876 colonial education 1876 1938 and development education 1938 2001 monetary and financial integration in west africa details the progress challenges faced and potential of the project intended to create a west african monetary zone wamz between gambia ghana guinea nigeria and sierra leone given the trend towards regionalization of economic ties across the world especially after the successful launch of the euro a detailed analysis of the wamz is needed as this is the first book on monetary and financial integration in gambia ghana guinea nigeria and sierra leone it is an essential read for anyone interested in economic development in west africa and indeed territories its economy and its vulnerabilities it analyses the developments and the ways in which west africa is conforming to a constantly changing global environment this book explores the challenges of transitional justice in west africa specifically how countries in the region have dealt with transitional justice problems in the last 30 years 1990 2020 and how they have managed the process using comparative historical and legal analyses it examines the politics of justice after violent conflicts in west africa the major transitional justice mechanisms established in the region and how countries have used these institutions to address injustice and the pains of war in some west african countries the book examines how transitional justice mechanisms have contributed to victims rights reconciliation and peace in transitional societies and whether transitional justice mechanisms deployed in west africa were suitable or ill fitted and the politics of deploying them the book is addressed to a wide audience policymakers and graduate and post graduate students of transitional justice conflict resolution peace studies conflict transformation international criminal law law and similar subjects this book will be of great value to academics and researchers as well as lecturers in tertiary institutions offering relevant courses legal practitioners peace practitioners ngos and those working in the field of transitional justice and human rights king chameleon and more west african folktales is a selection of folklore believed to have originated from west africa and the people who live in the region west africa is home to several scores of tribes languages and dialects even though tribal cords are quite strong and languages may differ markedly even between two communities a few hundred miles apart it is usual to find similarities between the local folktales and in some cases only the names of the central characters would make one version of a tale to be different from another most of the stories in this volume were gleaned from areas within the countries now known as Ghana and Togo however the stories are commonly retold in several forms all over the West Africa region originally published in 1978 as part of the urbanization in developing countries series this is an interdisciplinary study of rapid urban growth in West Africa Gugler and Flanagan first explore the history of the cities of the early West African empires and they draw on the work of social anthropologists and sociologists as well as demographers economists geographers historians political scientists and social psychologists they then describe the urban explosion that the region experienced after World War II they explore the implications of widespread urban unemployment and underemployment the housing crisis and the emergence of metropolitan areas such as Lagos the literature on urbanization and social change in Black Africa in general and West Africa in particular expanded at a fast pace in the years preceding publication this critical review of the disparate findings filled a gap in African studies and threw light on the understanding of Third World urbanization the early collections from Africa in Liverpool World Museum reflect the city's longstanding shipping and commercial links with Africa's Atlantic coast a principal component of these collections is an assemblage of several thousand artefacts from Western Africa that were transported to institutions in Northwest England between 1894 and 1916 by the Liverpool steamship engineer Arnold Ridyard while Ridyard's collecting efforts can be seen to have been shaped by the steamers dynamic capacity to connect widely separated people and places his Methodist credentials were fundamental in determining the profile of his African networks because they meant that he was not part of official colonial authority in West Africa Kingdon's study uncovers the identities of many of Ridyard's numerous West African collaborators and discusses their interests and predicaments under the colonial dispensation against this background account their agendas are examined with reference to surviving narratives that accompanied their donations and within the context of broader processes of trans-imperial exchange through which they forged new identities and statuses for themselves and attempted to counter expressions of British cultural imperialism in the region the study concludes with a discussion of the competing meanings assigned to the Ridyard assemblage by the Liverpool Museum and examines the ways in which its re-contextualization in museum contexts helped to efface signs of the energies and narratives behind its creation at a time when trade negotiations on cotton have been suspended the publication contends that with 16 million people in West Africa being dependent on cotton production the dialogue between developed and developing countries must continue and sets out a framework for discussions this 1971 book considers the part played by voluntary associations in the growth of towns in West Africa the media and prevailing policy discourses convey an increasingly apocalyptic image of the massive outflows of desperate Africans fleeing poverty and war at home this study tries to achieve a more empirically and quantitatively founded understanding of the nature scale and recent evolution of irregular West African migration to Maghreb and Europe furthermore the publication evaluates how policies to manage trans-Saharan and trans-Mediterranean migration have affected current migration patterns excerpt from Affairs of West Africa whatever its defects and no doubt they are many and various the author claims for this volume that it is at least an honest attempt to deal with the problems racial political and commercial yearly increasing in magnitude connected with the administration of Western Africa by Great Britain and by the other powers of Western Europe which participated in the scramble for African territory as such it is respectfully submitted to the thinking public the author considers it advisable to state that he has no commercial interests in West Africa and is therefore uninfluenced by considerations of a personal nature in emphasising the importance of the part played by the merchant on the West African stage he also deems it right to say that the West African section of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce is neither
